OTS FOR SALE-SEVERAL PARCELS

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, APRIL 19, 1861.

THE NEW YORK SUN

PRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 19, 1861.

Our Debt to Robert Anderson. Major Anderson has done more for his cour try than appears at first glance. The evhibi-tion of loyalty and bravery such as his, is always rewarded by the love of mankind; but we have no reason to suppose that his would prove a solitary example in similar circumstances, of a similar spirit.

Even the sweet and simple dignity of bir bearing, while it is rare in these days, is a style of greatness which is always significant of great sen in great times.

The people owe him much and love him wall n these regards.

But the chief obligation under which the naion is brought by his career, is found in the providential position which he has occupied. it is through the peculiarity of that position, which he accepted in such simple alscrity, and which he has occupied in such opportune and nanly quiet, that the sympathies of the counry being aroused, the loyalty and the Union pirit of the people has been rekinded.

The very fact that he stood there at his post, inder the embarrasaments of his kindly relaions to the rebels a out him, and his personal ntimacies among them, this very fact, so far rom being made as it has been, a plea, a hint f suspicion against him, is the pivot upon which his example has been able to face all ections, all parties, and summon them all to heir duty. Anderson's loyalty should never ave been doubted by any critic or carper, as has been by some of our contemporaries. ecause of his relation to the Secessionists, or he applause which has come from their anks as an irresistible impulse. His patriotic devotion owes its providential ower, and its poetical significence to these ery circumstances. It stands there like a tatue carved to southern cast of feature, rearing the drapery of southern habit --- biding back the southern maduess. Had parisan rancor helped to nerve his arm, or had ome porthern man held the same post in the ame way, the example might have been as true, ut it could not have been as vivid. The hand f God that set him in the front of Sumter, to old out the flag of his country, has waved to dence thus the jangling passions of party, and ttracted to the folds of that flag once more the everence of all.

This much we owe under God to Robert AMDERSON.

The War Crisis.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS. The city journals but reflect the universa, ntiment, when they declare that, in presence of se great national crisis, there must be but one parin this city -a party determined to support the nion and the Constitution, at all hazards. The ournal of Commerce makes an unwilling subission to the Government, in the following lesuage:

Some of the measures of the Government may ot be such as we approve, but we believe we speak to estiments of an that noble band of conservative ten who have hitherto with us breasted the wave f sectional fanaticism, when we say, for them and arourselves, that we will make no factious opposion to those measures.

The Herald, having taken the back track, now uage :

uts forth arguments to convince the border slave ates that it is their best policy to resist secession ad remain in the Union. It says :

ad remain in the Union. It says:

If the border slave states cannot at present act tith the northern states in this great crisis, neutrally is their policy; and we think they will adopt it, rescape the destructive visitation of this civil war pon themselves; and the field of walther open sons being thus confined to the seceed states, their aduction or destruction appears a slimest inevitable, legond a year or two of an exhausting civil war sey cannot hold out without losing the memopaly of secotion culture; for if our southern supplies of otton had beyond a year or two, they may be raised a other parts of the world, to supply the world's mocessities.

In another article the Merald, which has been

In another article, the Herald, which has been se great "bear" of the money market, and did all a its power to prevent our capita'ists subscribing er the National loan, has the effrentery to say: The Secretary of the Treasury is well supplied The Secretary of the Treasury is well supplied fifth money, and has assuran es that his departient shall not suffer from embarrassment. We are no doubt that half a million of men and a hundle and the control of the Excutive between this time and the Fourth of July, then Congress meets in extraordinary session. The lood of the North is up; and, without disparagement to the South, we may express our firm being set the descendants of the men who stormed Louising, scaled the heights of Abraham, answered the sitish infantry at Breed's fill, followed Stars at enhancing on and bore the colonial flag from Camridge to Yorktown, will not disgrage their ancesty in the coming struggle. The people of the North recompelled to accept the dread arbitrament of one away for the following the struggle. The people of the North recompelled to accept the dread arbitrament of one away for for them but an earnest, vigorous, desmined support of the Government.

The a magney nigger is deed, and the occupation of Funtary, Carasson & Co. is gone. The North is onsolidated as one man, and the government is the estationed at all harards. The South has treated as a foreign, hostile Power, and we can no longer reat or temporize—we must fight.

The World has a nervous and just article in consolidated of the Northern journaris which have mis expation of the Northern journals which have mis presented public feeling and encouraged treason presented public feeling and encouraged treason. Ye make an extract:

There is a he y and irresistable enthusiasm in the earts of the people or a conditions on line—roun the ler_yman in the public to the sweeper on the pareless, from the tamer by his sate to the farmer at is plow—an enthusiasm which these decelled jourals can no more overcome than they can draw the unlight from the air about us. They can confirm the shelidus, and push on the wavefur, alroad, but great home they are powerless, except to stir up adignation and contempt for their base faithlessess.

The Tribune editors seem to have "gone emzy" ver the prospect of civil war. A single paragraph cill suffice to prove their -- "witchess": -- cill suffice to prove their—"witchess":—

It is a plain case that they (the accessionists) must urry matters or succession.
It is a plain case that they (the accessionists) must make a immediate cash at our wracest point, the Fedral Met opolis. If Jury. Davis and Bauthaan re not on the Poto mae within saxiy days, their resultion will attaid, exposed a miserable failure. They aust took their sides in Soun Carolina and Virinia by a prompt display of force and daring, to thich end as there energies must first be directed. We do not believe they will even stop to reduce fort Pickens if it should be so held as to compal hem to besiege it in form. They cannot wait; we so; and they will show that they cannot wait; we so; and they will estop they cannot valing they daynes on Washnords, unless they shad cospair of suc case, and desist from sectous effort altogether. The Commercial Advertiser thus photographis he public feesing in-he public feeding :A feeling of deep indignation at the war waged, A heeling of deep indignation at the war waged, eithout provocation, upon the United States government, has taxen procession of all conditions of society. It has been embinered to a tentoid greater taggree at the forced surrender of Assanson and is brave garrison. The call for troops, made by he President, has been responded to with a maniality and zeal perhaps unprecedented in our lational nistory. In fact, there has been nearly very where a rivality between persons and parties, at a which should appear first, and do most in the great crisis.

The Post declares that treason, in every form must be suppressed, and in reference to the conduct of certain journals in this city which have defended she secession movement, it says:

In the case of a public journal which transgresses on this way, the remedy is in the hands of the community whose sense of right is outlaged by it, and it is a most peaceful as well as most effectual remedy. Let those who condemn the course of the newspapers employed as organs of treason among us cease to buy and read them, and they was become sitogether harmless. They can then neither influence nor offend; their power is gone the moment they cease to be looked at; they are smothered by neglect. he secession movement, it says :

The Tablet, of this week, an influencial organ of our Irish adopted citizens, thus speaks of the present crisis:

sent crisis:

"The secessionists have now begun the war, and not only do they talk of resisting the United States government, but of a sking an aggressive war upos it. The United State government must put forth all its energy to put down the rebellion, and every true man must now stand up for the Stars and Stripes. God save the Union!"

Men of Prayer in the Army .- We have some neh men new. We have had them in our former datory. God grant we may per have pious offers in our army and navy.

On that Sabbath morning, on which the battle of ake Champ sin was fought, when Commodore lowniz, of the British squadron, was sailing down in the Americans, as they lay in the bay of Piatts. urgh, he sent a man to the masthead to see what ey were doing on Commodore McDesocou's ship the flagship of the little American squadron.
"Ho; aloft," said Downe. "What are they doing a that ship?"

"Sir," answered the lookout. "They are gatherd about the main most, and they seem to be at rayer."

"Ah!" said Commodore Downe, "that looks eil for them, but bad for us."

It was had for this British Commodore. For the ry first shot from the American ship, was a chain oot, which cut poor Downie in two, and killed his • moment.

McDevocot was a simple humble Christian, and man of prayer, but brave as a lion, in the hour of sitle. He died, as he lived—a simple hearted carut Christian.

New York Port Society .-- The forty-third an-D. ANONG SEAMEN IN THE PORT OF NEW YORK" WAS old in the Cooper Institute on Monday evening, the th instant.

Addresses were made by Rov. Dr. Hironoogs. ev. R. S. HUNTINGTON, Rev. CHARLES J. JONES and aptain Elliott, interspersed with singing, expe-entes and prayers by seamen.

The last forty-three years has witnessed mighty oral and religious changes among our brethren of e sea, it being a rare thing, forty-three years ago, and a pious sailor. Now, pious seamen are met ith everywhere.

REMARKABLE INCIDENTS OF THE ELBER-BLD ORPHAN ASYLUM REVIVAL .-- In conection with this peculiar and wonderful religious ork, considerable details of which were given cently in these co'umns, the Otserver's corresondent adds the following incidents:-One boy, fourteen years old, who until this me had ridiculed the whole affair, and had aid : " If they are all converted, I will not ;" and had declared openly he had no longer ly conscience, had gone to bed before the ayer meeting, and remarked to those who ept with him, "While the others are aking such a noise with their prayers, we ill take a quiet nap?" But he could of sleep. The awakened children were aying for him continually. When he sard that his dearest friend, an apprence, who on account of sickness was for a me in the Orphan House, had also united him-lif with the praying circle, he said: 'Now my rength is half broken.' At last he got up in different was a ment to the kitchen. There he saw his iend in the midst of the other boys upon his aces, and heard that they prayed for him. In moment he was upon his knees, cried aloud, at fell into violent convulsions, so that it became necessary to carry him back to bed. A cent anxiety for his soul had taken possession 'him, and he believed himself to have comitted the sin against the Holy Ghost. The mulsions continued more than three hours, a was speechless during this time, but had all consciousness. On the next morning all wer of resistance was gone, but as yet no true ith was apparent. Towards eleven o'clock is convulsions were renewed, and continued atil one. At four o'clock he said, 'Now I in believe.' He had during this time a hunsring after spiritual food. The children and achers must sing with him, and also pray or ad passages from the Bible continually. He inted out with his own cramped, trembling ands, portions of Scripture, to be read to him, mong these was the twenty-third Psalm. As e heard the last words, "goodness and mercy," I seemed transported with delight. When a ate was brought to him upon which a favore bymn was written, he became joyfully exted, wished the verse to be read to him, and ent taking the slate in his own cramped, tremiting hands, cast his eyes over the words, and emed to devour the contents. At ten o'clock is Superintendent must pray with him. After time he became more quiet, and prayed himself: 'Lord, thou hast helped so many, help iso me." With the words "me," came the onvulsions. At eleven o'clock he fell asleep, ad awaked the next morning aver meeting, and remarked to those who ept with him, "While the others are resent time.

Still another very remarkable case occured, bey seventeen years old, who belonged to be shoemaking establishment connected with the Orphan Honse, and until then had not sased to laugh at what the Lord had done nder his eyes, exclaimed as he saw a boy ceping over his sins: "I wish I too for once light fall into such distress." Imrediately e tell down, cried and groaned, and declared ast Satan had seized him and held his mouth been him from praying. Later, he desired been one of the boys, a friend of his, who up this time remained hard and indifferent.— When he came he wished to embrace him. But sin truth he looked fearfully, his triend would ot step any nearer, nor give him his hand, or fear, said he, "that he will scratch me." be other reached out his hand with his finers all drawn together by his convulsions and cried; "Thomas, pray, or he will et you." The boy trembled all over t this, and left him. On the 7th of bebruary twenty boys lay in bed, a great part f whom were unable to speak, but were obligd to express their wishes in writing. It was emarkable that they all had full consciousness, and retained it even under the most violent onvolsions. Indeed, the greater the necessity, he greater was the desire for prayer. When hey were quiet, and could pray for themselves, he burden of their petitions were that the avil might not be permitted to fight them any ongor. They had then great joy, and felt temselves drawn mightily unto the Lord, from the 7th to the 10th of February, the number of boys so struggling was thirty-three.

It is worth something to exert an influence or good. I saw a lady, in Broadway, plunge er glove. A man is worth more than a jewel, nd we are seeking to save men. One saw an bject in the distance, and at first thought it to e an animal; but when he came near he found t was a man; and when he came, finally, face

o face with it, it was his own brother. We face with it, it was his own brother oface with it, it was his own brother. We sook at these men sweltering in all the abominations of debauchery, they are animals; as we pproach them, they are men; and when we at our arms underneath them, and bring here up, we stand face to face with our brother, made in the image of God, and owing alegiance to one common Father.

An Eloquent Appeal.

The Hartford Courant thus beautifully speaks to he people of Connecticut: Let not him who putteth on his armor boast Let not him who putteth on his armor boast, simself like one who putteth it off; but may we all, sobered by the grim reality of internal war, gird up our energies and quit ourselves like men. It is sweet to die for one's country; and sever had mortal a better cause than that which now summons all who feel themselves to be men, to rally around the flag of our lathers. Men of Connecticut! To arms!! You must be counted for or against the Governant must be counted for or against the Government. Which shall it be? Descendants of these who marched under the banner of GEORGE WASHINGTON, which shall it be?
